Learn about Florida Entrepreneur Ben Homan:

Ben Homan, the founder of Skillful Antics, focuses his time directing the web design and online marketing team at the boutique creative agency and raising a family. In his free time he juggles between being a managing partner for a few other for-profit startups (like Stonepile College and Homan Farms) and volunteers as Vice President for an international non-profit called Priority One Worldwide.

Skillful Antics helps small business compete against big box companies by offering fast service, affordable rates, and a gambit of digital and print services that larger agencies are not able to compete against. These services include web design and development, online marketing, print and branding, and multimedia production.

Priority One Worldwide focuses on supporting orphans and evangelists in third world countries by meeting humanitarian and spiritual needs while spearheading national efforts to fight against human traffickers and support trafficked victims.

Personally, Ben is married with a blend of four biological and adopted children. He values family and philanthropy and truly sees the simplicity of life as a crossroads between two choices: Build something that last for a moment, or build a legacy that last for eternity. That the latter in mind, Ben enjoys freedom out from behind the day to day grind and takes pleasure in spending time with family, friends, and creating adventures while traveling behind the heels of his Biblical heroes.
